What the Theater Press Agents Say

"ARE YOU A MASON," IS SUCCESSION OF LAUGHS

The comedy, "Are You a Mason?" will be presented at the Empire theater by "The Players," beginning Thursday for three nights and a Saturday matinee. The comedy is from the pen of Leo Ditchfield and is one of the rushing, rattling, roaring style, which compels laughter every minute of its duration.

Frank Perry, a New York business man, is left alone in his apartment when his wife, Eva, goes to Rockford, Illinois, to visit Amos and Mrs. Bloodgood, and her two sisters, Lulu and Annie. An Irish cook, Nora, is left with Frank. She has been sent to the Perry by Mrs. Bloodgood and refuses to be discharged.

The apartment grows lonesome and Frank takes Panchoan Armitage and a joyous party out for a ride. Panchoan is a clock model and feels like singing. The whole party is taken to night police court.

Hamilton Travers, under a music hall, witnesses the occurrence and blackmails Perry. George Fisher, former actor, now a stock broker, and Ernest Morrison, a young artist, are in love with Frank's sisters-in-law, Lulu and Annie. Fisher has been turned down by the old people because he has been an actor. Amos, wife, through a blunder, is delivered to her on her wedding day. Intended for Amos, from an "Angelina," stating that she is about to commit suicide on account of Amos' throwing her over Mrs. Bloodgood.

"Angelina" the curse of Amos' life. His frequent absences from home to escape nagging, he explains, are on account of his "lodge." Free and Accepted Order of Masons. As a matter of fact he is not a Mason.

Frank has promised his wife's mother and wife that he will be in time during her absence. He comes home at varying hours of the morning, and on the occasion of his wife's arrival, having breakfast and a roasting from Nora at noon. Nora informs Mrs. Perry, and Frank promptly states that the arduous duties and study necessary for a new member to the masonic fraternity are the cause of his being late and early. When his father-in-law from whom he expects to borrow $20,000 to extend his business, arrives in New York with Mrs. Bloodgood, Lulu and Annie avoid the subject of masonry as much as possible, but are plunged into difficulties at every gathering of the family. Hamilton Travers intrudes upon the family to blackmail Perry and learns of his second deception. Travers is a broken-down actor. Perry knows he will not get the promised loan if his delinquencies are discovered. Fisher agrees to dress and act the part of Angelina's daughter, working at Madame's dressmaking, extracting $20,000 from Bloodgood and give it to Perry. If Perry will intercede with the old people, he will accept him as a son-in-law because he has been an actor.

A real mason arrives and invites the ladies to a reception at the lodge. They send to the dressmaker and Fisher appears dressed as Panchoan. He takes the promise of $20,000 from Amos, but is summoned to fit on the dress of Perry's wife, and is making some delicate measurements when Perry throws him out of the house.

Hulton, a gentleman farmer, is anxious to become a mason and is causing great anxiety to the two bogus masons, who plot him to some of the most unexampled tests ever known to masonry. What they are, it would be impossible to relate. That these scenes keep members of the Free and Accepted Order of Masons in roars of laughter is sufficiently indicative of their ridiculous nature. A policeman arrives to arrest Perry and shows the warrant of disorderly conduct to his mother-in-law. Ernest Morrison, a real mason, seeks Bloodgood for the hand of Lulu. Amos sees he is a mason master, and, fearing discovery, tells Caroline that he is a bad character and not fit to be their son-in-law.

How cleverly Morrison gives an exemplification of the ties and fraternal brotherhood of masons all over the world and extricates the two bogus

BIJOU INAUGURATES PENNANT NIGHTS.

LET 'EM HAVE IT

Appropriate War Pennant being given away to every twenty-fifth patron of the First Street photoplay house Wednesday and Thursday.

Masons from their difficulties is shown in a succession of screamingly funny scenes and snappy dialogue. At the end of Morrison's activities he has won the daughter and made both conspirators able to answer the question, "Are You a Mason?" in due form, and give certain signs and tokens whereby one mason may know another in the dark as well as in the light.

The masonic fraternity of Edmonton and the ladies of the Eastern Star will doubt, be at the Empire in full force if they wish to enjoy and laugh at the comedy in which there is not a dull moment. While the comedy appeals strongly to all members of fraternal organizations and the general public, it is to those who have ridden the masonic breed of Angora, as entered apprentice, fellow craft or master mason, one long succession of laughs.

PANTAGES BILL THIS WEEK IS NOVEL ONE

The prediction that the show at Pantages theater was going to be another good all round bill, again, came true. The entire bill is novel from the rise to the fall of the curtain, but perhaps the most novel act of all is the turn of Hugo Luigens. Great things were predicted of this young monologist and impersonator and he is living up to all his advance stuff. Luigens is seen in the impersonation of the Swede preacher. The accuracy of his impersonation brings a smile when he first appears but throughout his act he does not once touch on anything that is religious. He imitates a Swede delivering his first sermon and takes for his text, "Glimming". From the moment he begins the audience commences laughing and keeps it up to the very end. His sayings are funny, but not foolish, and underneath there is a great deal of good common sense. His twist of the English language is perfect and he is a real treat for Pantages patrons.

The headline for the week is "The Eleven Minutes of Mystery". This is undoubtedly one of the cleverest gags that has ever come across Pantages. The play is a comedy, good voices to take care of some good songs, and dancing is far above the average. The play is a novel one and is acted excellently. Miss Fletcher and Mr. Ayres are supported by a capable company and it is one of the best acted plays that has ever come to the local playhouse.

Elored and Snow present a novelty ventriloquist, which is above the ordinary, while Leon and the Adeline show are really a most beautiful pantomime which includes a little bit of everything, from violin playing to breaking crockery.

"THE TRUTH" WELL WORTH A VISIT TO THE LYCEUM

"Tell the truth, however painful it may be," is an old saw, but it proves to be the solving of a difficulty at the Lyceum this week where the Lyceum players are presenting Clyde Fitch's masterpiece, "The Truth". A brief resume of the play is as follows: Tom Warden and his wife, Becky, are leading an idyllic married life, when their friends, the Lindons, become entangled in a family affair that causes their estrangement.

Both come to Becky Warden, and unknown to her husband, she endeavors to bring them together. Her husband and Fred Lindon's wife discover the fact and when they accuse her of an intrigue and an "affair de coeur" and finally come to a climax when Mrs. Lindon sues for a divorce. When Tom Warden accuses her she tells the whole truth, only to discover that she is not believed. They separate and how they are finally brought together and the happiness of the home restored make one of the most stirring of modern American dramas and is well worth a visit to the Lyceum, this week.

The comedy is excellent and is a drama in itself. The two comedy characters are so well drawn that they will supply a thousand laughs themselves. All in all "The Truth" is one of the most interesting comedy dramas that the Lyceum players have produced.

Miss Grace Johnston, as "Becky Warden," is excellent, and gives a very realistic presentation of "the woman who could not tell the truth." Edward Hearn gives a splendid performance of "Tom Warden," while William Yule handles the comedy element in his usual style, and succeeds in getting more laughs out of the piece than the author ever dreamed of. Miss Marion is a close second in the comedy line and her scenes with Mr. Yule are a riot.

Miss Davidson, as the trouble-making woman plays the part with a seriousness and expression that make it one of the strongest pieces of work in the company. Miss Darling is good in a minor role. The feminine portion of the audience are delighted with the beautiful wardrobe displayed by the better of the cast. Donald Gray, as "the homebreaker" gives an excellent interpretation of a very thankless role.

To facilitate spraying plants there have been invented a receptacle to contain insecticide in cake form which may be connected to garden hose, the water gradually dissolving the poison.

CAPITAL LABOR STORY IN FILM AT EMPRESS

The program for Wednesday and Thursday, brings to the Empress theater a "masterpiece" photo-play of such distinctive merit that it has earned for itself one of the first names of the day, from the highest critics in the world to fiddlers. "The Lily of the Valley" is named, being a three-part feature production. The scenario is written by Gilbert Willems, who will be remembered as the writer of the "Adventures of Kathlyn" series, as well as a number of the other big successes of recent manufacture.

The film evinces strongly the fine artistic vision of moving pictures greatest director and the fine attention to detail. The story tells vividly of the strife between the workers of a large factory and its headstrong owner, whose chief attention is paid to profits and little attention to the welfare of the employees.

There are great mob scenes, showing the demolition of the factory by the striking employees and the calling out and work of the militia to quell the riots. In strong contrast there is shown the conduct of a young girl, whose heart bleeds for the wrongs of the workers. Other distinguishing character studies are masterfully done each playing a compelling part in the great theme that is developed.

The story is one that has peculiar significance just at this time, when the labor troubles in Montana are giving the country south of Alberta such concern.

THEATERS MUST FIRST JENNANT NIGHT THURSDAY—BIJOU

As the popular far was a short time ago for the collection of cigar-bands so it seems to be now for the collection of pennants. Everyone is anxious to procure some new style of pennant for his or her collection.

Taking advantage of this newest craze just at its bud, the enterprising Bijou theater management has set upon every Wednesday and Thursday evening at this theater, as "pennant night," giving away free to every 25th patron of the Bijou, a large beautiful pennant to add to, or help them finish, their collection of pennants.

Wednesday begins the first pennant night. A particularly appropriate style of pennant has been secured; it pictures Johnnie Walker, France, and Russia giving swift chase after the Kaiser, with bayonets directed towards the troublous German, and there is expressed on the face of the pennant the word, "Let 'em have it." This style of pennant will be given away tonight and tomorrow. Each week a new style will be given.

The new stunt put on by the Bijou, in addition to the high class of photo-plays that this theater has been giving to the public for over half a year, meet with great response. It is something different and yet, too, something more that they get—that is what people want and the wide-awake management of the Bijou Street theater is fully alive to the wants of the moviegoer, not only in these particulars, but fully as much so in the character and quality of the movies exhibited there.

"The Substitute," a war story, touching upon a very just and timely title of the feature picture that is being shown today and tomorrow.

TEN THOUSAND DEAD GERMAN ARMY COUNTED AFTER ONE ENGAGEMENT

London, Sept. 9 (4.55 a.m.)—The correspondent of the Times at Petrograd sends the following: "The extent of the losses during the first six weeks of the war places the previous casualty lists far in the background. Not less than ten thousand dead Germans were counted after one engagement in eastern Russia. On the fatal September 1, when two Russian corps came to death grips with four German corps north of Souda, the losses of both sides totalled between 60,000 and 70,000 the majority being Germans. The result of the fair at Nijni Novgorod provides conclusive evidence of the comparatively small effect the war had upon internal trade. Business was suspended for only two or three days at the beginning of mobilization, but afterwards it was normal.

"There was a brisk demand for goods from central Asia, Persia, the Caucasus and the Volga regions. A majority of firms are ready to extend credit to regular customers. The state bank, by active discounting, supports the fair. Firms alone suffered through the interruption of foreign trade."

GERMANS ENTER REIMS WITH BANDS PLAYING

London, Sept. 9.—A Central News despatch from Reims to the Times by way of Amsterdam says: "The Germans were in doubt whether the town had been evacuated and a patrol first entered the town. The mayor was held hostage for safety of the German troops. On the following day the main German force entered the town with their bands playing."

War Atlases to Readers of the Edmonton Daily Capital

As soon as the war started in Europe the Daily Capital made arrangements to not only chronicle the events connected with it day by day, rapidly and accurately, with the latest illustrations, but also to give the people of Edmonton and Alberta an atlas by which they could, in connection with the news as published in the paper daily, secure what was paramount to a bird's-eye view of the engagements as they took place.

We scoured the continent for information and have had compiled a veritable encyclopedia of the war in Europe. It is an atlas, printed in colors, of 16 pages, each 12 by 16 inches.

OUR WAR ATLAS.

This is the most complete and attractive atlas in print. The size is 12 by 16 inches. The cover is in full colors and very attractive, showing the flags of nations at war and a beautiful small round map of the world in colors. Inside are clear, beautifully colored, 50 by 20 inch maps of Europe and the World and smaller half page maps of Britain, Russia, Germany, Austria, Balkan States and France. These maps are in full colors. There are eight pages of splendid halftones and text. The pictures are all taken from a private collection of photographs which show the very latest pictures of the armies, navies, airships and leaders of all the nations at war. This collection of pictures is a wonderful addition to the atlas and is exclusively our own.

SOME PICTURES SHOWN.

Among these pictures are one of the British flagship "Iron Duke," Earl Kitchener, British torpedo-boats and aeroplanes practicing in the North Sea, the theater of the great naval struggles of the present war, naval guns in action, cruiser being destroyed by an "assassin of the sea," a submarine torpedo; German, French, Russian, Austrian and other battle-ships and others.

The maps of the different countries are in the minutest detail, so that, no matter where an engagement takes place, whether on sea or land, you will be able to put your finger on the spot and trace the movements of the various armies and navies.

This atlas and the maps will be a handy thing to refer back to, even after the war, when the map of Europe may be considerably changed.

FREE DISTRIBUTION.

The Capital is going to distribute a limited number of these atlases in such a way that they will not cost the readers of this paper one cent.

CENSOR NOT NUMBERED AMONG THE UNEMPLOYED

That was a cryptic little dispatch of yesterday which said that the Belgian reservists were given permission to join the Russian army.

Where? Where else except in Belgium? The circumstance that all we have in this country in the way of information of a grand army on the north coast to cut off the German communications and prevent them getting back to Berlin is the unconfirmed report that 250,000 Russians are now in Belgium, the fact that British regulars sail and do not appear on the allies' front, and that the Indian troops have not yet put in an appearance on the firing line, gives some idea of the secrecy with which the transference of immense bodies of troops is being handled in this war.

A glance at the map showing the locality from which the dispatch of conflict come will show at once the danger in which the German army is placed if the allies have succeeded in launching behind them an army of a million or more out of Antwerp and Ostend. It will make plain, also a reason, other than necessity, for leading the German hosts on toward the alluring lights of Paris. It may mean that the south-eastern movement, of which we hear so much about, is not an attack by the Germans so much as a flight in the hope that they may be able to break through the Vosges mountains and escape into their own country again.

To those who attempt to follow the war map on this side of the Atlantic, the whole panorama is very much of a puzzle. The events of the next few days may put the picture together again in some semblance of order, showing where the armies are attempting to get, and why. But at present it must be admitted that the censor is by no means among the unemployed. He has anything in the nature of enlightenment bottled up more effectively than Jellico has the German fleet.

THE NECESSITY FOR A SANCTION OF THE PACT OF NATIONS

"What has always been wanted is a sanction of the pact of nations," is the way Professor Hale, lately returned from the continent, expresses the reason which he believes sufficient to justify United States in declaring war against Germany in order to enforce the conditions of the Hague convention.

Whether he recognizes it or not, the professor is promulgating an idea which is certain to sooner or later take complete possession of the minds of the sane people of the civilized world, and to become the greatest force of all for the debasement of the militarist cult in the direction of human affairs.

When the nations subscribing to the Hague convention are determined unanimously to enforce its pact and police the world, when the nation which violates its terms is outlawed, and its directors proscribed, when the Hague court is so sincerely backed by the nations of the world that it can be given for the humblest peasants slain, for women outraged and children massacred, for the poisoning of food, the killing of wounded, the setting of mines, the hurling of indiscriminate bombs, when the Hague pact is a court and a world police which will catch and hang the monsters who, claiming that their monarchy is the ordination of God, indict these crimes, then there will be less enthusiasm upon the part of autocrats for war with all its barbarisms and unbridled criminality.

A PLAGUE THRUST UPON THE WORLD BY THE POWERS OF MISRULE

The present war was not a popular war in any one of the countries involved. At the very eve of the war the serious-minded people of Great Britain and most especially those who will have to bear the burdens, were invoking the government to exhaust every power of diplomacy to avert war. The government of France was virtually in the hands of the anti-war party. Russia's lethargic millions could not have been in favor of war, for they had no way of knowing of the crisis which threatened the peace of the world. Italy's people today, notwithstanding that she is in imminent danger of becoming involved, are imploring the government to spare the country the horror of war if at all possible. Serbia had just emerged from the tragedy of a devastating war which must have sickened her people of such a horror. In Austria-Hungary the great mass of the people were so little in favor of war that even after war has been declared they are deserting the flag on the field of battle and flying back, like the steel to the magnet, to the camps of their racial allies. Even the millions of Germany now under arms dreaded and abhorred the very thought of war, as countless hundreds fisting their backs and liberties to protest against the growing arrogance of militarism so eloquently testify.

This is not a people's war, nor was there ever such a thing. It is a plague which is thrust upon the world by the powers of misrule.

THE BANKS HAVE FAILED IN THEIR MISSION.

In the financial crisis which accompanied the American war business was stagnated because there was not sufficient currency. In other words, the credit system of the country had broken down. That emergency, the thing that saved the union was the "greenbacks"—a national currency.

In the present emergency in Canada, the government has gone on the hypothesis that the bankers of the country could be depended upon to act in the public interest. The government, upon this hypothesis, has given the bank notes its imprimatur, has given the banks the right to issue a greater volume of currency—backing every cent of it—and has deposited with the banks Dominion notes of an amount presumed to be sufficient to guarantee against any sudden occurrence of panic in any quarter.

But the banks are not using this increased scope for the benefit of the public. They refuse to lend the money. In the face of an acute condition created by the war they refuse to be bankers. They are not in a state of war, but in a state of siege.

The cure for this condition is too obvious to require even expression. Call off the bank currency, and issue the national currency direct, as Wilson is doing it in United States through his federal reserve board.

The banks have failed in their mission. They are no longer entitled to their franchise to print money. The government is backing it all now anyway. Why should the government not issue it all?

BUFFER STATE AND PRIZE OF WAR FOR THOUSAND YEARS

History But Repeating Itself in Flag-Changing Alsace and Lorraine.

History but repeating itself once more in the big conflict where the French and Germans are battling in Alsace and Lorraine, buffer state and prize of war for more than a thousand years. Almost times without number since the year 843 A.D. the people of what is now Germany and France have fought for the possession of Alsace and Lorraine, that territory changing from one flag to another with astonishing frequency.

The history of France, and Germany, as separated nations, begins in 843, on thousand 72 years ago and the history of the wars and tribulations of Alsace and Lorraine as the bone of contention between the two and as conquerors first and the vanquished then, began soon after that same year 843.

Struggle 1,000 Years Old.
 The present campaign that France is waging against the Germans in Alsace is therefore only the continuation of a struggle over one thousand years old. The facts of geographical positions have created the problem. It is a problem which will remain unsolved and unsolvable as long as the Rhine flows and the Vosges mountains stand. France says that the Rhine is her true eastern frontier. Germany says that the frontier line beside the Rhine is hers.

It was in 843 that the three grandsons of Charlemagne, fighting among themselves, decided to end the controversy by dividing their grandfather's possessions among themselves. They acted on the ancient principle that the lands and the people dwelling upon them, till the soil in peace and fighting the battles in war, were the private property of the sovereign, ruling by the "divine right of kings." Charlemagne had ruled the whole of Europe as one united government, with the exception alone of the private possessions of the pope of Italy. His capital was at Aachen—the Aix la Chapelle of modern times, which is now a possession of France.

Was Too Weak.
 Charlemagne's son Louis the Debonair, was too weak to hold together such heterogeneous empire of peoples of different race and temperament, and speaking different languages, and only bond being an official religion, that of their sovereign, and a common government. He was too weak even to rule in his own family and long before his death, his three sons were quarrelling over their prospective inheritance. The one who was the strongest, called Louis, the German, made the first choice in the division and he took northern Europe and became king of the Germans. He second brother, Charles the Bold, took southwestern Europe and became king of the Franks. In the main the descendants of the people of these two kingdoms are the Germans and French of today.

These two brothers took land which formed a compact whole, and which could easily be defended. The people of Louis all spoke one language and the people of Charles, now the French, all spoke another.

The third brother, Lothair, the weakest, had to take the middle land, his father's empire. That included what is now Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Alsace, Lorraine and the present German Italy. It was peopled by many different nationalities. It could not be easily defended, and the people of Lothair broke it into two parts, and the narrow strip along the Rhine, from the Alps to the North Sea, was given to the son of Louis from touching those of Charles, who too great a prize not to be coveted by both the stronger brothers, and they soon began to fight one another about it, each to take it from Lothair. Thus the troubles of the buffer state began.

Swiss Conquered.
 The mountaineers of Switzerland wrested the Alpine passes from the kingdom in the thirteenth century and have been a republic ever since. The people of Italy broke free of their dependence under the leadership of William of Orange, in 1648, but the successors of Charles the Bold, ruling in France conquered them later and it was not until 1815 that they were the again. Belgium then formed a part of Holland but the combined countries were too big and powerful for a buffer state. In the eyes of the great powers and Belgium was separated from Holland in 1830.

Luxembourg was promised to France by Prussia if France would stay out of the Prussia-Austrian war of 1849, but when the war broke out the French sent the French army to the aid of the Prussians and the Germans refused to give the state the descendants of Charles the Bold. Luxembourg accordingly was made independent and the guns of her forts taken away. She has since not fought on either side. The small strip of northern Italy which belongs to the kingdom of Lothair was after many vicissitudes, incorporated in the union of Italian states under Victor Emmanuel II.

Alsace and Lorraine has alone remained of Lothair's kingdom to be fought over by the two great nations on either side. Together they cover an area of 14,641 miles.

During the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 when Germany was the victor, almost all the great battles were fought in Alsace and Lorraine. At the commencement of the present war, France immediately invaded Alsace to wipe out the disgrace of 1870.

The claim is made that a 16 candle-power carbon filament incandescent electric lamp at Wilkes Barre, Pa., has been burning steadily without interruption for more than 15 years.

GERMANS OUT OF AMMUNITION AND WHEN, FALL BACK
 Not Prepared at Present for Such Huge Enterprise, Say Experts.
 ONLY HOPE OF ENEMY IS ASSISTANCE FROM NORTH
 This is Now Too Long Deferred to Be Realized is Opinion.

Paris, Sept. 9 (6.55 a.m.)—The German progress seems to have been too rapid and too precipitate in the last few days to get to the gates of Paris, for they arrived out of breath and, to all appearance, out of ammunition, which they did not possess their original plan.

All prisoners, of whom 300 or more arrived in Paris yesterday, appear fatigued and harassed, and the spirit of the army seems to be everything that is different from the conquerors who pushed back the army of defence from the frontier and reached the gates of the capital.

Whether they hoped to gain time by a tangent movement away from Paris, or, on some military expedient, supposed to effect a junction with the army of the Crown Prince, which was to come from the direction of Langres, the development must of the last four days prove that it was a grave error.

The army already weakened by forced marches and constant fighting on route, and now further enfeebled by the engagements of the last four days, is not in the opinion of experts, prepared for such a big enterprise as the siege of Paris, even if it retrieves its fortunes in the battle now in progress. The only hope of the Germans therefore, lies in the armies on the northern frontier coming to the rescue and this hope now seems too long deferred.

Red and Gun.
 The cover of Red and Gun magazine for September illustrates the fact that the open season for wild ducks in Canada, starts with the first of September. ## BRITISH MERCHANT SAYS CANADA HAS A FINE OPPORTUNITY

Comes Here to See if Dominion Wants First Chance to Replace Germany

CAN GROW TO BE GREAT MANUFACTURING NATION
 Thinks Dominion Government and Shipping Companies Should Help Plan.

Montreal, Sept. 9.—Replacing the German market with British and Canadian ones needs only willingness on the part of Canada to take the necessary business to account it, according to the view of P. O. Donald, who has arrived here on a mission to the government and the manufacturing interests of this country to see if a scheme of co-operation on empire lines cannot be developed by which Canadians will undertake to supply Great Britain with the enormous amount of manufacturing material which she has been accustomed to receive from Germany. Great Britain has in the past largely depended on Germany for this material, and now that Germany is invested by sea, and her trade completely demoralized by the hand, the syndicate of merchants which Donald directly represents believes that the time is ripe for the development of markets for a corresponding prosperity to replace the German markets.

German Government Helped.
 It is pointed out that in Germany and the United States a low cost price for this material was secured by giving it in enormous quantities. In Germany they were enabled to develop their business chiefly by reason of government assistance, and afterwards they did not need it. In the United States, by bumping their products in Europe and selling at good prices at home, they managed to secure an enormous output, which gave them a low cost of production. If Canada were willing to take the necessary measures to secure this enormous output, which would bring a low cost of production, the merchants of Great Britain, through whom all this material was distributed to the manufacturers, would co-operate with them to help them to develop Canada into one of the great manufacturing nations. The opportunities in this direction lay before Great Britain, the United States and Canada. It was his opinion that assistance from the government might be necessary to accomplish this. He was willing while in Canada to confer with any manufacturer who wanted advice on how to get a market for those articles of German export which used to come under the head of hardware and similar articles.

Canada Should Have It.
 "That enormous output of German manufacturers is no longer coming into Canada," said Mr. Donald, "What is going to have that trade for the future? We think that Canada should have it. It must be either the United States or Canada. If Canada will not have it, we will have to go to the United States, but we naturally want to give the dominion the first chance. In the matter of raw material, labor, iron, coal, and so on, Canada is placed as well as the United States. All that she needs is the large output. Does Canada have the large output? This is what I want to find out. I am going to Ottawa to confer with some of the ministers. This is an opportunity which will never occur again for three or four centuries."

Mr. Donald also represents indirectly the meeting of the English and the British, where it was decided to find out why where Great Britain carried on the business of the world, and to replace the attitude of British merchants towards the great war that it affords an unparalleled commercial opportunity to Britain and to Canada. The war was in the main a commercial war. Great Britain had a long service army, and as a result the sending of her troops to the continent had not disturbed the manufacturing industries as the action on the continent, which calls men from every occupation.

The call of volunteers would affect labor to some extent, but in the main merchants from the standpoint of business alone might wish that the war would last for a couple of years, for that would give them more time to finish their present campaign of entirely replacing German goods throughout the world. As for Germany, even if the war did finish now, it would be years before she would be in a position to manufacture as she has been, and the probability would be that she would never be entirely recovered. The destruction of iron bridges over rivers, and the entire dislocation of her railroads and other systems would ensure that.

Mr. Donald said that the shipping companies would be a strong influence in Italy's position in the Mediterranean and consequently also on Italy's entire international position.

The Berlin Telegram states that the shipping companies have been informed that it is more than ever fully determined to observe complete neutrality.

BILL, A LA NAPOLEON, WATCHES GERMAN AS THEY BOMBARD NANCY

Geneva, Sept. 9.—A report from Basel, Switzerland, confirms earlier statements that the German warships, anchored at first by a small staff he took up a position on the hill overlooking the town, just outside the range of the French artillery. For several hours the Kaiser stood alone in an isolated spot in the full glare of the sun, his eyes glued to a field glass through which he was following the operations of his army. Finally he walked back to his waiting automobile and was driven away unattended.

SAYS RUSSIAN ADVANCE DEVELOPING FAVORABLY

Washington, Sept. 9.—The Russian embassy here today issued the following statement:

FORT WILLIAM AND WINNIPEG PROVIDE EXCITING MATCH FOR CONNAUGHT CUP

Score 1 to 1—Leaders of Regina Go Down to Defeat at Hands of Montreal—Allege Winnipeg Man is Professional Player.

Winnipeg, Sept. 9.—The Fort William C.P.R. team took the lead in the Connaught cup soccer series for the championship of Canada by holding the champion Norwoods of Winnipeg to a draw on Tuesday. Though the technique of Montreal scored a shut-out over the Leaders of Regina, they did not show enough class to put them down as serious contenders for the cup.

The meeting of the Norwoods and Fort William team provided much the better play of the two games. The Winnipeg team was probably outplayed but strong defense tactics kept the visitors at long range and few of their shots were dangerous, and the game ended with each team scoring a goal. The Norwoods took the lead in the first period by scoring a goal from a scrimmage after the C.P.R. players had failed to clear after making a clever stop, but the Lake City goalers tied up the score after showing hand near the finish, throwing a penalty kick. Both teams pressed hard and will take a lot of beating. The early game between Montreal and Regina was pretty one-sided, for though the Westerners showed lots of pluck they did not have the finish of their opponents, but neither team was very brilliant and the score of 2 to 1 in favor of Montreal is a fair criterion of the strength of the teams. The easterners scored a goal in each period and were pressing for most of the way.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Football association has been under way for two days, but nothing out of the ordinary has resulted. Today's session was taken up with the discussion of a protest against Amherst of the Winnipeg Norwoods, a decision it was decided to give Montreal for confirmation, but in the meantime he plays for Norwoods at the risk of the club. The association has decided to stick by their amateur rule and will elect officers today.

EDMONTON GOLFERS MAKE SUCCESSFUL SHOWING CALGARY TOURNAMENT

Edmonton golfers were very successful at the tournament in Calgary. E. Munro Hunter captured the Alberta Amateur Golf championship and the annual men's handicap was taken by E. H. Simpson of Edmonton with E. G. Palmer and R. V. Heathcote finishing second and third respectively. J. L. Jell, of Edmonton was second in the boys' competition, while in the men's tournament, E. H. Simpson and E. G. Palmer came second.

J. Munro Hunter, the new amateur champion, is one of the entries in the open championship competition, which is now in progress. The leading amateurs and professionals in the province are entered in the tournament.

The final game in the Charity shield soccer competition, which was to have been played off last night, could not be staged on account of the rain. The game will not be played until the weather is favorable and the grounds are in good shape. The date will be announced later.

MANAGER TURNER FINDS NEW RULE

Calgary Man Has Weird Idea—May Play Deciding Game Saturday.

The Edmonton City Daily baseball team returned home Tuesday evening after their Labor-day game in Calgary. They were unable to play the deciding game for the amateur championship of the province on account of rain, but although arrangements have not as yet been completed, it is probable that the contest will be staged next Saturday, but in which city has not been decided.

Murphy, according to the boys, pitched a splendid game, but in the ninth inning had the misfortune to be struck on the pitching arm by a line drive to pitch the Calgary half of the inning, but his wing gave out, and before the season was over wanted to retire. Then, however, Lloyd Turner, manager of the Athletics, came out with a weird rule that it was against the rules to change pitchers during the inning, and, being good amateur sports the boys went on with the game. How Turner ever evolved such a rule is difficult to say. At one time he was a professional, or at least a semi-professional ball player, and it is surprising that he should be so ignorant of the game. Murphy finished the inning, but in his weakened condition, was hit hard and the boys were nosed out by one run.

YORKSHIRE HANDICAP WON BY THOMPSON'S REDWOOD, 10 TO 1

London, Sept. 9.—The great Yorkshire handicap, 1,000 pounds, run over the mile and six furlongs at the R. Leger course, was won by V. T. Thompson's five-year-old horse, Redwood, by Oppenheimer-Breastrie Maude who started at 10 to 1. Lord Derby's three-year-old, Marine, 100 to 6, was second, and boots, three-year-old, 6 to 1, third.

"HOW CAME BACK"

Ed. Walsh's Own Story of His Return to the Game.

By Ed. Walsh.

They say I am back. Whether I am or not can only be shown after this winter. At least this is the rumor prevalent in the city today. The European war is the cause, and it threatens to put a couple of seasons right out of business. The veteran Victoria club may be practically shut out from many of the players enlisting for the war. Such players as Harry Baker, Lovett and Patterson, who were counted upon for next winter's team, are off to the front, while such stars as Les Moffat, Corky Fowler, Charlie Hecher, and the two Hawfl boys are thinking seriously of enlisting.

The champion Monarchs are said to have all their regulars lined up, but the Winnipeg play has been weakened through the absence of Bert Andrews, who is another of the stalwarts who have shouldered a gun. This may mean the breaking up of the senior league this winter, but according to some rumors the league may be suspended for one year.

Benefit for Devereaux. The Calgary Bronks have played a disbanding for a day in order to play an exhibition game with a Calgary team, the proceeds to be handed over to Red Devereaux, their former manager, who is in poor circumstances and is still in Calgary.

The Moose Jaw and Regina clubs played a benefit on Tuesday for Fitch and Rhode, who had his arm broken in Diamond park last month, and who will be out of the game for good.

Boston, Sept. 9.—Boston took the lead today in the National league race by defeating New York 8 to 3 in the final game of the series. Jarred held the visitors to three hits, one of them a triple and another a double. Besides hitting Marquand, Proulx and Witte for his services, the home team finished splendidly.
